The Native-to-Native SIP Mentorship Program Webinar Series was designed as a didactic accompaniment to help improve intergenerational professional development and provide mentoring support. Much of what mentors do is advise junior colleagues and aspiring colleagues on career and identity development by reference to and reflection on their own personal experiences. This webinar will include presentations by three mid-career Native psychologists: Dr. Stephanie Miller, Associate Professor in Developmental Psychology at the University of Mississippi; Dr. Rindee Ashcraft, Clinical Psychologist in Independent Practice in Bellevue, WA., and Dr. Tammy Greer, Associate Professor in Experimental Psychology at the University of Southern Mississippi. The primary goals of this webinar are for participants to become familiar with reasons individuals selected psychology as the focus of their careers, and what diverse paths, approaches, and strategies they used in their lifelong journey of becoming psychologists. The presenters will address the specifics of their current work roles as well as discuss roles they had in other positions they held as psychologists. As they address the stories of their career beginnings, they will have special focus on how they incorporate cultural identity into professional practices, research, teaching, and consulting. We are interested in exploring how becoming a psychologist shapes one’s identity, and how identity as Native people shapes the work of psychologists.
This Webinar is Hosted by the Society of Indian Psychologists Mentorship Program Committee:

Denise L. Newman, Ph.D., Chair, Alberta Arviso, Ph.D., Linda M. Forrest, Ph.D., Rebecca Crawford Foster, Ph.D., Brian McNeill, Ph.D., & Gwen Rasmussen, M.Sc.

Learning Objectives:

The participant will be able to:

1. Identify three reasons why Native individuals might chose a career path in psychology.
2. Describe three ways that Native psychologists serve their Native community in their capacity as psychologists, academics, teachers, clinicians, or consultants.
3. Identify three ways that Native psychologists integrate their culture with their professional identity as psychologists.
